JAPAN AND THE U.S. IN FULL ACCORD ON CHINA AND THE WAR

Lansing Gives Out Terms of Agreement Reaffirming "Open-Door" Policy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Japan and the United States have reached a complete agreement in regard to China and at the same time have arrived at a clear understanding as to military, naval and economic co-operation in the war against Germany.

This momentous development was announced to-day by Secretary Lansing, who made public notes exchanged by him and Viscount Ishii, the Special Japanese Ambassador, formally recording an agreement recognizing that Japan has a special interest in China, but pledging the independence and territorial integrity of the great Eastern republic and reaffirming the doctrine of the "open door" for commerce and industry.

In a statement accompanying the note Mr. Lansing said Viscount Ishii and the members of his mission, now on their way home, had performed a service of the highest value to the United States as well as to Japan by clearing away misunderstandings which, if unchecked, promised to develop a serious situation in the Far East. He spoke of an attitude of constraint and doubt fostered by a campaign of falsehood and secretly carried on by the Germans, and said that through the frankness and cordiality of the Japanese Commissioners the propaganda of years had been undone in a few days.

DID NOT KNOW PROBLEMS HAD BEEN DISCUSSED.

Until last night, when an Associated Press cable despatch from Peking announced that the Japanese Ambassador there had informed the Chinese Foreign Office of the signing of an agreement by Secretary Lansing and Viscount Ishii, it had not been known generally that the delicate Far Eastern question had been taken up at the conference between the Commissioners and American officials. In fact, it was stated authoritatively soon after the mission's arrival in Washington that such problems would not be touched upon, and as the conferences progressed the general understanding was that such subjects as Japan's need for steel for shipbuilding and American gold for trade balances were engrossing attention.

Following is the State Department's announcement:

"On Friday, Nov. 2, 1917, the Secretary of State and Viscount Ishii, the special Japanese Ambassador, exchanged at the Department of State the following notes dealing with the policy of the United States and Japan in regard to China:

"Department of State, Washington, Nov. 2, 1917.

"Excellency: "I have the honor to communicate herein my understanding of the agreement reached by us in our recent conversations touching the questions of mutual interest to our Governments relating to the Republic of China.

"In order to silence mischievous reports that have from time to time been circulated it is believed by us that a public announcement once more of the desires and intentions shared by our two Governments with regard to China is advisable.

"The Governments of the United States and Japan recognize that territorial proximity creates special relations between countries, and, consequently, the Government of the United States recognizes that Japan has special interests in China, particularly in the part to which her possessions are contiguous.

MUST NOT VIOLATE CHINA'S TERRITORIAL INTEGRITY.

"The territorial sovereignty of China, nevertheless, remains unimpaired, and the Government of the United States has every confidence in the repeated assurances of the Imperial Japanese Government that while geographical position gives Japan such special interests they have no desire to discriminate against the trade of other nations or to disregard the commercial rights heretofore granted by China in treaties with other powers.

"The Governments of the United States and Japan deny that they have any purpose to infringe in any way the independence or territorial integrity of China, and they declare, furthermore, that they always adhere to the principle of the so-called "open door," or equal opportunity for commerce and industry in China.

"Moreover, they mutually declare that they are opposed to the acquisition by any Government of any special rights or privileges that would affect the independence or territorial integrity of China, or that would deny to the subjects or citizens of any country the full enjoyment of equal opportunity in the commerce and industry of China.

"I shall be glad to have Your Excellency confirm this understanding of the agreement reached by us.

"Accept, Excellency, the renewed assurance of my highest consideration.

"(Signed) Robert Lansing.

"His Excellency

"Viscount Kikujiro Ishii,

"Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of Japan, on special mission."

JAPANESE VERSION OF DIPLOMATIC CONVERSATIONS.

"The special mission of Japan.

"Washington, Nov. 2, 1917.

"Sir:

"I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of to-day, communicating to me your understanding of the agreement reached by us in our recent conversations touching the questions of mutual interest to our Governments relating to the republic of China.

"I am happy to be able to confirm to you, under authorization of my government, the understanding in question set forth in the following terms:

"Here the special Ambassador repeats the language of the agreement as given in Secretary Lansing's note.

"(Signed) K. Ishii.

"Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of Japan, on special mission."

"Honorable Robert Lansing,

"Secretary of State."

In his statement accompanying the announcement Secretary Lansing said: "Viscount Ishii and the other Japanese Commissioners have performed a service to the United States as well as to Japan which is of the highest value.

GERMAN AGENTS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE FALSE REPORTS.

"There had unquestionably been growing up between the peoples of the two countries a feeling of suspicion, which, if unchecked, promised to develop a serious situation. Rumors and reports of improper intentions were increasing and were more and more believed.

"The attitude of constraint and doubt thus created was fostered and encouraged by the campaign of falsehood, which for a long time had been adroitly and secretly carried on by Germans, whose government, as a part of its foreign policy, desired especially to so alienate this country and Japan that it would be at the chosen time no difficult task to cause a rupture of their good relations."

"Unfortunately there were people in both countries who accepted every false rumor as true and aided the German propaganda by declaring that their own Government should prepare for the conflict which, they asserted, was inevitable. There is no doubt that the feeling of suspicion and uncertainty thus created was receiving more and more credence. In spite of the earnest efforts on both sides of the Pacific to counteract a movement which would jeopardize the ancient friendship of the two nations.

"The visit of Viscount Ishii and his colleagues has accomplished a great change of opinion in this country, by frankly denouncing the evil influences which have been at work, by openly proclaiming that the policy of Japan is not one of aggression, and by declaring that there is no intention to take advantage commercially or industrially of the special relations to China created by geographical position, the representatives of Japan have cleared the diplomatic atmosphere of the suspicion which had been so carefully spread by our enemies and by misguided or overzealous people in both countries. In a few days the propaganda of years has been of no interest to nations are now able to see how near they came to being led into the trap which had been skillfully set for them.

JAPAN WILL CO-OPERATE IN WAR ON THE GERMANS.

"The statements in the notes require no explanation. They not only contain a reaffirmation of the 'open door' policy, but introduce a principle of non-interference with the neutrality and territorial integrity of China, which, generally applied, is essential to perpetual international peace, as clearly declared by President Wilson, and which is the very foundation also of Pan-Americanism as interpreted by this Government.

"The removal of doubts and suspicions would be enough to make the visit of the Japanese Commission historic and memorable, but it accomplished a further purpose, which is of special interest to this country at this time, in expressing Japan's earnest desire to co-operate with this country in waging war against the German Government. The discussions, which covered the military, naval and economic activities to be employed with due regard to relative resources and ability, showed the same spirit of sincerity and candor which characterized the negotiations resulting in the change of notes.

"At the present time it is inexpedient to make public the details of these conversations, but it may be said that this Government has been gratified by the assertions of Viscount Ishii and his colleagues that their government desired to do their part in the suppression of Prussian militarism and were eager to co-operate in every practical way to that end. It might be added, however, that complete and satisfactory understandings upon the matter of naval co-operation in the Pacific for the purpose of attaining the common object against Germany and her allies have been reached between the representatives of the Imperial Japanese Navy, who is attached to the special mission of Japan, and the representative of the United States Navy.

EXPECT MILITARY AND NAVAL AID FROM MIKADO.

"Viscount Ishii will be remembered in this country as a statesman of high attainments, as a diplomat with a true vision of international affairs, and as a genuine and outspoken friend of America."

Though only hinted at in Secretary Lansing's statement, it is known that the Germans had calculated to weaken the American campaign against Germany in Europe by obliging the Washington Government to keep at home a large section of the United States Army, and to maintain in Pacific waters a numerous American naval fleet to guard against an invasion from Japan.

Now it is believed that the United States not only can deal with its prosecution of the war with a freer hand, but that Japan will be able greatly to augment the efforts she has been making to sweep the Pacific and Indian Oceans clear of German raiders; to aid the Allied navies in the Mediterranean and possibly even to employ Japanese troops in the campaign against Germany.

These Are the Most Fashionable Furs

—So women have decided

Fox—the most popular today. Skunk—a near second in favor. Beaver—we have sold more this season than in the past three years.

Wolf, of the finer sort—a good substitute for fox, costs less, wears better.

Lynx—wears extremely well for such a soft fur.

Mink is decidedly in favor, probably because it looks a great deal like the very fashionable Hudson Bay sable.

American women are making their own fashions today. These are the furs they want—and these furs are here in wide variety of shape, size and price. Wanamaker furs are reasonably priced and plainly labeled with their true names.
